the concept of proGective

proGective was born in August 1994 from the will to create an intellectually and financially independent organisation, entirely devoted to prospective and foresight. It is now, at the same time, a research center, a tool for technological and social watch and an organisation devoted to the implementation of foresight and prospective in a concrete and operational way.

proGective is a private company depending from the French legislation (SARL), which guarantee its financial independence and its ability to answer the market demand ; yet it acts as a non-profit organisation.

proGective is organised in four distinct but interdependent activities:

- its own activity of research and development in prospective and foresight ; proGective is a member of large international futures studies networks (World Futures Studies Federation, World Future Society). It belongs as well to different research groups: Louvain Research and Development Group devoted to innovation and technology, post-doctoral research group of the Gregorian University in Roma, etc. It also takes part to the discussions of the international futures studies community. This networking feeds proGective's own concepts and methodologies, which outcomes are often published;
- an activity of technological and social watch concerning more than sixty different themes, as various as human rights, spatial technologies or metropolitan development. This activity contributes to the continuous elaboration of future-oriented analytical grids and provides explanatory or alternative synthesis;
- a consulting activity lead for public and private organisations, as it is the best way to check the outcomes of the R&D activity and to identify new needs as well as emerging trends. Daily challenge, this activity embodies the final purpose of proGective: develop an operational prospective and foresight, fitting the new social needs.
- finally, proGective ensures an ongoing activity of promotion of foresight through its dedication to scientific committees, teaching/training, lectures in the Academe and everywhere it is possible to raise a futures-awareness.

Born 18 June 1960

Assistant to Prof. Jacques LESOURNE and Michel GODET's and lecturer in futures studies and strategy (cycles B and C of the Conservatoire National des Arts et Métiers); then assistant to the general manager, in charge of futures studies within the Agence pour la Diffusion de l'Information Technologique (ADITECH), she subsequently became studies manager of Futuribles International.

She is the head of proGective, a consulting firm dedicated to futures research, study and advice she founded in August 1994.

Since 1995, she has taught futures studies at the University of Angers (France) — ISTIA, Institute of the Science and Technology for Engineers— and regularly gives lectures in universities, public institutions, private organisations on various futures-oriented subjects...

She is a member of several research groups —such as the Group for Research and Development of Louvain (Belgium), bringing together the Research Managers of the main multinational firms established in Belgium— and a fellow of futurists associations such as the World Futures Studies Federation (Executive Board Officer) and the World Futures Society (U.S.)

She is also a member of scientific committees for seminars and international conferences, and of panels of experts about specific subjects (environment, energy, space activities, Mediterranean area, etc.).

She has written several papers and books, especially three about the territorial prospective and one about 'French prospective'. Some are translated into English, Italian and Spanish. Some are about to be translated into Arabic.

tomorrow

In August 2005, she has been elected President of the WFSF (World Futures Studies Federation), as recognition of her international career devoted to futures studies. This NGO, established in 1967, is a global network of practicing futurists —researchers, teachers, scholars, policy analysts, activists and others from over 50 countries— dedicated to the promotion of futures studies. She will serve for a term of four years and can be re-elected for no more than two consecutive terms.
